

Please do not preempt the Indiana no call list. I have no problem with a national MINIMUM standard, but I feel it should not override states with higher standards. I am partially disabled and do not appreciate "rushing" to the phone only to find another telemarketer. Since putting my name on the Indiana no call list, such incidents have dropped from two or three every night to about once a month. It is my home, my privacy, I should have the right to prevent invasion. Thank you for your consideration.
